

LECTURE SERIES

SPRING 2012

Thursday, February 2

Irene Small, Assistant Professor, Art History

Passion of the Same: Cacique de Ramos and the Multitude

Tuesday, February 7. 100 Gregory Hall on February 7 from 4:00-6:00 p.m.

Clemencia Rodriguez, Communications. University of Oklahoma

Disrupting Violence: The Production of Resilient Visual Culture in Embattled Colombia

Tuesday, February 21, 2:00-3:30pm

Júlio Emílio Diniz-Pereira, Federal University of Minas Gerais (UFMG), Brazil

Associate Professor, Visiting Associate Professor at University of Washington-Seattle (2011-2012)

The Impact of the Landless Workers Movement on the Development of Brazilian Activist Educators' Identities

Thursday, February 23

Eduardo Coutinho, Distinguished Lemann Visiting Professor

Multiculturalism and Miscegenation in the Construction of Latin America's Cultural Identity

Tuesday, February 28, 2:00-3:30pm

Elana Zilberg, Associate Professor, Communication Department. University of California San Diego

Gangster, Guerilla, Soldier, Cop: The Many Faces of Transnational Violence between the U.S. and El Salvador

Thursday, March 1

Ariel de la Fuente, History. Purdue University

Sex and Eroticism in Jorge Luis Borges's Literature

Thursday, March 1-3, Levis Faculty Center

2012 Joint Area Centers Symposium: Cities and Inequalities in a Transnational World

Thursday, March 8

Erica Vogel, Korea Foundation Post-doctoral Fellow

Center for East Asian and Pacific Studies, University of Illinois

Global Conversions: Money, Migration and Work for Peruvian Laborers in South Korea

Thursday, March 15

Deborah Cohen, History. University of Missouri at St. Louis

Braceros: Migrant Citizens and Transnational Subjects in the Postwar

United States and Mexico

Thursday, March 29

Greg Grandin, History. New York University

U.S.-Latin American Relations: The Failure of the Obama Doctrine

Thursday, April 5

Carolina Sternberg, Ph.D. Candidate. Department of Geography

Buenos Aires and Chicago: A Tale of Two Evolving Neoliberal Redevelopment Governances Through Four Dimensions of Analysis

Thursday, April 12

Kate Grim-Feinberg, Ph.D. Candidate, Anthropology

Embodying Respectful and Respectable Citizenship at the Intersections of Educational Policy, Classroom Practice, and Child Rearing: Children in Post-Conflict Rural Ayacucho, Peru

Thursday, April 19

Charo Montoya, Independent Scholar

Gendered Scenarios of Revolution and its Aftermath in Nicaragua, 1975-2000

Thursday, April 26

Ryan Jones, Ph.D. Candidate. Department of History

Tomb of the Pacific" – The Islas Marías Penal Colony and Mexican Male Homosexuality in the 1930s

PLACE 101 International Studies Bldg, 910 S. Fifth St. Champaign

TIME All sessions begin at NOON unless otherwise noted above

Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies

For more information on our activities check <http://www.clacs.illinois.edu>

CLACS